

2010 Pre-AP English & Vertical Teams Syllabus

July 26 – 30, 2010

Institute Overview

Pre-AP Topics in English Vertical Articulation aligns the academic experiences of students in grades 6-12 as they progress in Language Arts. Using the AP English Literature and AP English Language examinations as springboards for this discussion, English Vertical Articulation facilitates teamwork in streamlining the skills integral to success on these exams, as well as in all aspects of Language Arts. Areas of articulation include: analysis of poetry, fiction, nonfiction, and rhetoric; articulation of research skills; scope and sequence of writing objectives. Teams will have the opportunity to align areas of curriculum during the Institute.

Consultant Background

Stephen Heller has worked as an English Vertical Team consultant with the College Board since 1999. As a Midwest regional consultant, Steve has facilitated EVT institutes in English Vertical Teams in Kansas, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, and his home state of Illinois. A table leader for the AP English Language and Composition exam, Steve teaches accelerated/AP English courses at Adlai E. Stevenson High School in Lincolnshire, Illinois. He also co-facilitates the interdisciplinary course: American Themes in the AP Classroom at Carleton College in Minnesota. Steve also serves on the AP Language and Composition test development committee, and he co-authored the pre-AP/Honors textbook called AP English Bound with Peoples Publishing.
