*Scholarships available for Graduate Students

Work with a Program Provider to find a specific program that fits your needs:

The following are some institutions that provide study abroad programs. Washburn students who participate in these programs earn transfer credit. The tuition is generally more expensive than WU.

AIFS (American Institute for Foreign Study): www.aifsabroad.com/

AustraLearn, (Programs in Australia & New Zealand): <http://www.australearn.org/>

ISA (International Studies Abroad): www.studiesabroad.com

IEP-(International Education Programs): <http://www.iepabroad.org/>

CIEE International Study Programs: <http://www.ciee.org/study.aspx>

Guidelines for participating in another institution's study abroad program:

Research your options at www.iiepassport.org, www.studyabroad.com, www.goabroad.com, www.Petersons.com

Contact the programs directly if you have any questions or would like to apply, obtain the approval of your major department.

Visit the Office of Financial Aid to discuss using loans, grants or scholarships toward the program costs.
