

Reminder to all faculty and staff that the Quality Initiative project is seeking ideas to promote Excellence in Education at Washburn University, specifically as it relates to: (1) facilitating the smooth transition of students into college life, (2) improving teaching excellence, or (3) improving technological competence and the use of technology at Washburn.

The first phase of this project is to identify the many possible problems and opportunities. The process of submitting your idea does not require a lot of time or effort, simply complete the brief online form by November 1. Quality involves everyone - faculty and staff at both campuses - and we hope to receive a lot of initial proposals. Please take a few minutes and consider things that can enhance educational excellence at Washburn University.

For more information, visit the QI web page, or feel free to contact me directly.

Thank you.

--

Thomas Underwood, Ph.D.
Assistant Dean, Academic Outreach
Quality Initiative Coordinator
(785) 670-1242