

Hi! My name is Alisha Bajrcharya and I'm from Nepal. I'm a sophomore majoring in biochemistry with a biology minor. I've always wanted to pursue my higher education in the United States which is the primary reason why I came here. I also wanted to try something new and diversify my knowledge by meeting new people from different countries and learning about their cultures. One thing I'm sure of is I've become confident and outspoken after I have come here. I love trying new cuisines and I'd love to get your suggestions. I also enjoy going on walks. Here at Washburn, everyone is willing to help so if you have any problems do not hesitate to ask for help. Be involved in the campus and make friends, you'll enjoy your journey with Washburn.
