- In the Reference Collection on level 2
- In the Stacks on level 3 (14th ed., 1993)

Chicago Manual of Style includes two different citation systems. The first uses footnotes/endnotes and bibliographies, and is used primarily in the humanities; and the second, uses in-text author-date citations and reference lists, and is used primarily in the natural sciences. Either system is acceptable, as long as the citations are consistent throughout the paper.

[N = End/Footnote, B = Bibliography, T = In-Text Author/Date citation, RL = Reference List in Author/Date style]
